FIRST DAY Thursday, 18th February, 1892. The opening day of the Hongkong Jockey Club's annual race meeting was not on this occasion what could be called a brilliant success. In this respect it quite agreed with what was generally prognosticated; The entries for the various events were considerably less numerous than formerly, and Mr John Poel's Flatogicher, 11.4. Mr the sweeping provisions of the new Gambling Ordinance had undoubtedly the effect of lessening the public interest in the meet-condition and the times of the various races compare favourably with those of previous and Lightning remained unchallenged to meetings. Although the sport was somewhat slow to begin with, it got more interesting as the day advanced. As an indication of the smallness of the fields on this occasion it may be montioned that only two ponies ran in no less than three races, and in all the important races the fields were greatly reduced. Whilst there was no apparent diminution in the gathering of Chinese, there was a decided falling spectators.
